
i3 Research, an Ingenix company, is a subsidiary of UnitedHealth Group (UHG). We are a full-service clinical research organization (CRO) with offices throughout North America, Europe, Australia and Asia and have run clinical trials in more than 45 countries. We have managed clinical studies for many of the world's largest pharmaceutical companies.

i3 Research is committed to principles of good information handling. We maintain an i3 Research Investigator Network Database, which contains information you provide us via the Web site. The information below explains our use of that data. We hope you continue to be interested in working with us and complete and return the Clinical Trials Interest Survey (Form 100) so that your information in the database is accurate.

The information we request from all potential investigators is name, contact details, medical license number (or equivalent); information regarding your medical specialty, research experience, research site, research interest, and patient population; and other details pertaining to specific trials you have conducted. Once you provide us with such information, we supplement it with publicly available information about you such as information found within the U.S. FDA databases. The i3 Research Investigator Network Database is physically located in the United States.

We use this information primarily to match your expertise and patient population with clinical trial opportunities within the U.S. and on an international basis. You are of course under no obligation to participate in any given trial.

We may make this information available to the following classes of recipients:

- Sponsors of clinical trials who are involved in selection of investigators
- Potential sponsors who are interested in the feasibility of a trial
- Regulatory agencies in the U.S. and elsewhere
- i3 Research affiliate companies, which may be involved in particular proposed or actual studies

This disclosure may occur in countries inside and outside the European Union (EU). Outside the EU, data protection laws may or may not apply. If they do not apply, we will respect principles of good information handling, most importantly pertaining to the security and the use of your data only for the above purposes.

It is important to us that you provide us with information only if you agree to the above uses of that data. Once your information is in our database, you may at any time contact us (mary.grina@i3research.com or +1.952.833.6577) to request:

- A printout of the details we maintain in the database regarding you
- That we update or correct any such details
- Removal from the database. Removal from the database will severely limit our ability to consider you for future participation in clinical trials.

There is no cost or contract requirement to be included in our Investigator Network Database. Through inclusion, investigators increase their potential for participation in clinical trials that i3 Research is under contract to manage. Investigators are not obligated to participate in any trial, but are invited to evaluate study opportunities as they are presented. The data in the database is not used for any direct marketing purposes.
